APPEAL OF MINNIE WILSON DISMISSED

Minnie Wilson made another effort, basing her claim to the estate of the deceased on the pretense of being his daughter. In support of this claim she asserted she had in her possession a photograph of her mother which was presented by Mr. Miller to her several months before he died, and also other photographs of family connections, and a family Bible which her mother had given her in which her parentage was established. As soon as Minnie Wilson asserted her relationship to the deceased, the attorneys for Mr. Watkins instigated a thorough investigation of Minnie Wilson's history, which investigation covered in all some seven states, resulting in positive proof that she was not at all related to the deceased.

The case in many instances was a spectacular one. But it seems that the administrator and his attorneys are not yet through with their labors. On March 24th last, the State of Arizona, through its attorney general, filed a petition asking the court to revoke and set aside its former order admitting the will to probate as presented by Mr. Watkins, alleging on information and belief that the deceased had revoked and destroyed the will during his life time, and that said will did not exist at the time of his death, and for that reason, the entire estate should escheat to the State of Arizona. Mr. Krook states that certain phases of this petition will likely come up for hearing before Judge Jones on his next visit to Kingman, which will be about the 24th inst.

After the ceremony they continued their journey and will surprise their Eastern friends when the journey ends.
